Important Information about Submission and Issues Related to Copyright

Poster abstracts previously presented or published may not be submitted to the EPA without modification. Data must be updated or expanded, resulting in a new abstract.

EPA is granted unrestricted, irrevocable permission to publish the abstract in printed material and/or in an online searchable database.

EPA expects that the primary author will present original data at the meeting if the abstract is accepted for inclusion in the EPA proceedings. EPA reserves the right to withdraw the abstract if it is published or presented elsewhere prior to the EPA meeting. The primary author retains the abstract's copyright, and anyone who contacts EPA wishing to use the abstract after the EPA meeting will be instructed to contact the primary author for permission.
